Walk-ins welcome!
Using OneSearch on the Library homepage, select the Articles tab. Type your keywords into the search box and press Search.

Click on Peer-reviewed to weed out anything that is not peer reviewed. Whether or not you want peer reviewed articles depends mostly on your assignment requirements, so be sure to read the instructions completely before beginning research.

In the window that appears you may see one or more Full Text options. That is okay. OneSearch searches through multiple databases at the same time. You’ll see multiple Full Text options because the article is available in multiple databases. Click any of these to move to the next step.

You will then be taken to the full text of the article. Sometimes you will be brought directly to the full text. Other times you may have to open the PDF. This depends on the database where you are accessing the article.

If you ever receive an error message or experience any difficulties when trying to access an article, contact us at reference@bridgeport.edu. Please give us the citation for the article and describe what happened. We will work to fix the problem or assist you in getting the full text as quickly as pos-
